Things That Matter: Three Decades of Passions, Pastimes

These are the things that most engage me. They fill my days, some trouble my nights. They give me pause, pleasure, wonder. They make me grateful for the gift of consciousness. And for three decades they have occupied my mind and commanded my pen. I don't claim these things matter to everyone. Nor should they. I have my eccentricities. I've ...

The author does indeed come up with a list of topics that do or should matter to most. And while the specific subject matter (i.e. baseball, chess, bioethics, the Middle East) may not be of particular interest to some, the underlying themes (i.e. fairness, the beauty of logic or physics) are.

The Four Things That Matter Most are drawn from end-of-life situations, yet the subtitle is "A Book About Living." 1. What might stories from such situations teach us about living? 2. If people we love know we love them, and that we forgive them for previous tensions, why is the value of "stating the obvious"? 3.
